As an organization, we honour Human Rights and we are committed to treating all people with respect and dignity.

OUR CODE AND POLICIES

Our organization sets expectations for how its business shall conduct their activities, and our employees, suppliers and contractors are expected to work in accordance with the ethical standards set forth in our Code of Conduct; they are also required to comply with all relevant laws and regulations. Our organization’s Code of Conduct applies to all employees including Board members and reflects our commitment to acting ethically and lawfully in any area and place we operate.

Our Code of Business Conduct and Ethics reflects who we are as an organization and what we believe in. The Code reiterates our Company’s Values, and describes our expectations for employees, managers, and third parties. It offers life-based scenarios and tips and a list of useful resources, and addresses key risk areas, such as the modern slavery and human trafficking and may be found here.

We train our employees on all aspects of the Code, to raise awareness and ensure our people know what is expected of them. We also have a disciplinary process in place for those employees that deliberately break the rules set forth in our Code of Conduct, which ensure that these issues and/or unacceptable conduct is handled appropriately.

In addition, we have a dedicated Policy on anti-slavery and human trafficking, which further clarifies the principles needed to comply with the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and other relevant anti-slavery laws and regulations, and underlines our commitment to transparency in our supply chains. It provides our employees, contractors and other business partners, guidance on slavery and human trafficking, as well as summarizing the measures taken by the organization to tackle slavery and human trafficking in our business to ensure slavery and human trafficking is not taking place in our supply chains.

Our employees are encouraged to report any suspected breaches of our Code of Conduct and supporting policies, or any other misconduct through various means, including our Integrity Helpline reporting system that is available by phone or website 24/7. We do not tolerate any retaliation or other discriminatory behaviour against employees for reporting suspected violations in good faith.

SUPPLY CHAIN RISK ASSESSMENT AND MITIGATION MEASURES

We conduct our business in a manner that respects the human rights and dignity of all, and we support international efforts to promote and protect human rights, including an absolute opposition to slavery and human trafficking, child labour, and forced labour. We never knowingly do business with any individual or company that violates employment laws or engages in human rights abuses. We also expect our suppliers to source responsibly, monitor their suppliers and, where needed, require corrective action.

To underline our commitment to tackle any forms of misconduct in our supply chain, we have also developed a dedicated

UGI Supplier Code of Business Conduct and Ethics. This document describes the expectations that we have towards all third parties that we do business with and includes provisions about honouring human rights and sourcing ethically and sustainably. Our Supplier Code can be found here.

In addition, to reduce the risk of slavery and human trafficking in our supply chain, we perform an assessment of our third parties based upon a number of factors, including but not limited to their location, cumulative spending, and the type of services or products provided. Relevant suppliers are then required to successfully complete our anti-slavery due diligence review and agree to specific contractual clauses.

TRAINING

We have conducted a series of trainings for our Leadership and management teams about the Code, underlining – among others – the importance of work safety, diversity and inclusion, fair and equal treatment and respect of human rights which includes a firm prohibition of any type of modern slavery and forced labor. However, to ensure a high level of understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in our supply chains and our business, we are planning to implement a specially designated training to our relevant staff.

OUR EFFECTIVENESS IN COMBATING SLAVERY AND HUMAN TRAFFICKING

We are committed to improving our understanding and management of slavery and human trafficking risks over time. In following years, we will measure how effective we have been to ensure that slavery and human trafficking is not taking place in any part of our business or supply chains by conducting an internal review and comparing the figures with past years.
